Coronation Bell In Brandon, Man., Is Fifty Years Old

The golden anniversary of a faithful servant of the citizens of Brandon, Manitoba, passed almost unnoticed in the usual rush of everyday life. Fifty years ago the coronation bell rang out for the first time.

Used originally to call members of the volunteer brigade to the scene of a fire, the coronation bell of the bell now serves only to warn people that the department has been summoned to attend a fire. Through the years it has rung out on many great occasions of state and annually it summons the members back to recall those who died in two world wars.

Daily the bell has rung for many years to mark the noon hour and again at one o'clock to summon the citizens back to work. It rings again at 4 p.m. to announce the end of the working day and the closing of the schools. For many years the bell has rung on many happy and sad occasions. The huge bell, weighing with its mounting 1,500 pounds, was purchased in Troy, New York, in the spring of the year of 1901.

The coronation of the coronation of King Edward VII. It was installed in the old fire hall in the fall and first rung on October 6, 1911. It was placed in the tower of the present fire hall.

The bell's inscription reads as follows: Erected by the City of Brandon in honor of the Coronation of Edward the Seventh by the Grace of God of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and of the British Dominion beyond the Seas, Defender of the Faith, Emperor of India, Anno Domini one thousand nine hundred and two.
